SAFETY TENSION LEVERS

- Safety tension levers are used on applications where a thoughtless or mistaken releasing or repositioning of the tension lever could lead to an accident.
- The lever in its rest position is not connected with the internal spindle and can be rotated unhindered.
- The tension lever engages in the serration only after pushing it down thus allowing clamping or unclamping.
- The 'freewheel' position is re-established as soon as the handle is released.
- Black oxide finish with black plastic ball knob.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ADJUSTING THE PRESSURE IN A GAS STRUT

SAFETY REQUIREMENTS

STOP

Please read carefully before installing
Failure to do so could invalidate your warranty

Gas Springs should always be treated with respect in the knowledge of the pressure internally. Under no circumstances should they be opened or tampered with, or subject to excessive heat or tension.

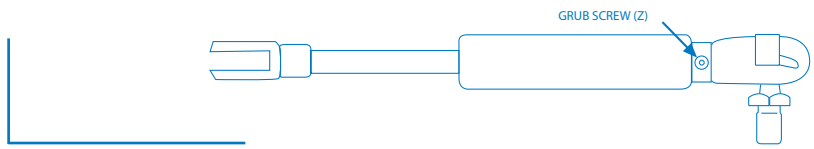

As the nature of a gas spring is to lose its force over a long period of time, it is advisable to periodically check its ability to operate as initially intended, preferably forming part of a planned maintenance programme. Replace if, and when necessary.

INSTALLATION INSTRUCTIONS

For standard compression gas springs, we advise the use of ball joints to alleviate possible side load. Always ensure end fittings are fully screwed onto the gas spring thread ends before fitting.

Generally fit with piston rod down, preferably within 60 degrees of the vertical, and avoid the spring travelling through a large arc. It is advisable to keep the spring in a single plane of movement. Failure to adhere to this advice may result in reduced life of the gas spring.

Valve Adjustment Instruction

When correctly fitted the grub screw will be seen at the top of the cylinder. Fitting the cylinder this way allows the oil in the cylinder to lubricate the shaft seal.

ADJUSTMENT OF THE GRUB SCREW

Ensure the 2mm allen key (provided) is located in the grub screw (Z) to its maximum depth.
Undo the screw carefully by rotating anti-clockwise until gas is heard escaping. When re-tightening care should be taken to ensure that excessive force is not applied, as this will damage the hexagon in the grub screw and make it inoperative.

Repeat the process releasing a small amount of gas at a time until the required spring action is acquired. It is advisable to add approximately 10% to the weight being supported when adjusting the gas spring. This will reduce the chance of releasing too much gas.

UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES SHOULD THE GRUB SCREW BE REMOVED.

Please note that a slight mist of oil may sometimes be seen escaping when venting gas . This is normal.
